PROGRAM OVERVIEW

ABOUT AAPS

The American Association of Pharmaceutical Scientists (AAPS) is a professional, scientific organization of 7,000+ members employed in industry, academia, government, and other research institutes worldwide. Founded in 1986, AAPS advances the capacity of pharmaceutical scientists to develop products and therapies that improve global health.

ABOUT PHARMSCI 360

AAPS is the convener of the pharmaceutical science community, bringing together thousands of scientists from across the world and the drug development process. For them, PharmSci 360 combines all the energy of a large scientific conference with the intimacy of a small niche meeting because of its unique programming structure.

PharmSci 360 is built on six tracks that offer both chemical and biomolecular drug programming in symposia, rapid fire presentations, and posters. Scientists attending the meeting report that they build their schedule to solve their problems, and may attend programming in only one track or all of them!

SCIENTIFIC THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

SCIENTIFIC THOUGHT LEADER EVENT DESCRIPTIONS

All Thought Leadership presentations are one hour in duration unless otherwise noted.

PARTNER PRESENTATION

$6,000

Host a Partner Presentation to establish your organization as a thought leader in your discipline. Potential formats include case studies and panel discussions. Content must align with one of the 6 program tracks.

TECH SPOTLIGHT

$6,000

This presentation offers a great opportunity to have one of your best and brightest scientists present your latest breakthrough technologies to a focused, engaged group of prospective and current clients.

ROUNDTABLE DISCUSSION

$6,000

Host an intimate roundtable discussion! Lead a short presentation and open discussion with meeting participants.

SOFTWARE DEMO

$6,000

Host a user group meeting or demonstrate your software. Content must align with one of the 6 program tracks.

ONLINE LEARNING PRE- AND POST-SHOW

$6,000

Deliver an eChalk Talk or AAPS Webinar before or after the meeting to extend your engagement with attendees! Webinars are 60-minute sessions that dive deep into a scientific topic—perfect for panels and detailed reviews. eChalk Talks are 30-minute casual conversations—15 minutes of presentation, followed by 15 minutes of Q&A—ideal for positioning your scientist as an expert on a topic.

All online learning proposals are peer-reviewed, ensuring that your program will meet the audience's expectations. Regardless of whether you choose an eChalk Talk or an AAPS Webinar, your program will be promoted to 80,000 registrants, current members, and prospects, and you will receive a complete list of GDPR-compliant registrants.

Promote your AAPS online learning event to your contacts to push your message further! AAPS will happily re-tweet and re-post your message about your AAPS eLearning event.

AUGMENT YOUR THOUGHT LEADERSHIP PRESENTATION

$6,400

Upgrade to a Thought Leadership package, which includes all of these items, at a 20% discount: Company Profile Page, Pre-show Email, Attendee List, and Post-Show Email.

SHOW THEM YOUR SCIENCE TO LAND THEIR BUSINESS

PROGRAMMING REQUIREMENTS

- To ensure the integrity of the AAPS programs and content, and to best position your company for success, AAPS uses a peer-review process and will not allow product-pitching in these discussions.
 - AAPS acknowledges that within the discussions proprietary information will be shared. However, SALES materials about your products and services—including flyers, slides, and other content that promote sale of your product, not the science—may not be included in the discussion. Instead, focus your conversation on your science to establish your credibility, then invite them to engage with you further for specific discussion about your product/service solutions after the presentation.
 - Have your expert scientists lead these discussions. AAPS' member scientists wish to speak to other scientists about their work. Make sure that the person they talk to from your company is a thought leader, not a salesperson.
 - All topics and discussions must focus on the scientific merits and applications of your product or service, not a sales pitch. Promoting a product or service during a scheduled session is not permitted. However, discussing the scientific merits through application and case study is allowed. See, "What is proprietary?" on page 10.
- Discussion leaders must complete a submission on AAPS' formal submission site with information detailing proposed discussions and speakers.
 - Submission content must align with one of the 6 programming tracks:
 - Discovery and Basic Research
 - Preclinical Development
 - Bioanalytics
 - Clinical Pharmacology
 - Manufacturing and Analytical Characterization
 - Formulation and Delivery
 - Complete your submissions by the specified deadlines.
 - Submissions will be peer-reviewed. AAPS reserves the right to reject any speaker or topic—but will work with a partner to reach an acceptable solution, if time allows—so submit on time!
 - If your submission is rejected, AAPS will work with you to revise the submission to meet AAPS' programming standards and ensure your scientists are seen in the best light by participants.
 - All pre-recorded sessions must be within the allotted time slot to adhere to the PharmSci 360 schedule.

SCIENTIFIC THOUGHT LEADERSHIP

WHAT IS PROPRIETARY?

AAPS registrants expect a scientific and application-based discussion in partner events—not a hard sell or a product pitch. Therefore: speakers, moderators, and others may not discuss a company’s product features and benefits or services prior to or during an education session or other scheduled discussion.

Speakers, moderators, and others are permitted to discuss a company’s products and services once the scheduled discussion is concluded. Materials used to support a session or discussion may bear the company logo, but they must not promote a particular product or service.

Presenters are encouraged to include their contact information at the end of their pre-recorded session for registrants to follow-up if they have any questions.

QUESTIONS?

Contact AAPS’ Senior Manager, Exhibit Operations and Partner Services Rasheena Wilson (WilsonR@aaps.org), if you have questions after you have purchased your Thought Leadership Package.

BE RECOGNIZED AS AN AUTHORITY

PRESENT YOUR SCIENCE
SHOWCASE YOUR EXPERTISE
BECOME AN INFLUENCER

PharmSci 360 participants are looking for peer-to-peer dialogue that allows them to articulate the challenges they face at work.

Lead that discussion with a small group of scientists, positioning your organization as a scientific thought leader.
